AT FAIR GROUNDS -Our Lillie Won Feature Race of Day From Malster

AT UNION TRACK—W. B. Gates Came Home First in Feature at Carmody's Course.

BOOMERACK MAY PROVE WINNER OVER THE UNION TRACK TO-DAY.

Looks Well in the Fifth Race and Should Beat His Field-Triple Silver and Arch Oldham May Win at the Fair Grounds-Arnold K.'s Performance Was Disappointing Yesterday.

Last Thursday, in stoppy going similar to that of yesterday, a was beaten off nine lengths. In his previous start, the open-ing day of the meeting, over a fast track, he was beaten off seventeen lengths. Yesterday he galioped home.

Arnold K. beat Pretension last Friday. Pretension has shown a liking for heavy roing and was only unlucky in being taken near the rail in the heavy clay of the home stretch. Arnold ran like a handicap performer in that event. Yesterday, it vas Arnold K. who swerved into the clay at the head of the stretch.

Excuses can well be offered for any Excuses can well be offered for any horse on the circular quagmire which now represents either the Union or Fair Grounds course. Under ordinary circumstances, criticism of a horse on such a track would be causeless and ridiculous. But when one horse has run badly in this going and another shows handicap form—when the bad performer comes out and wins easily and the other is beaten off at odds of 1 to 3—what's the use of trying to pick winners, anyhow?

odds of 1 to 2—what's the use of trying to pick winners, anybow?

Betting on this sort of track would seem of little avail, unless there is improvement in form. It would seem reasonable to expect performers on sloppy courses to show the same form in two consecutive appearances. If this can be obtained, it would benefit the game considerably.

The Republic picked four winners at Union yesterday, it could not pick a winner at the Fair Grounds. The Republic selected Velos to beat Broodler yesterday. Broodler won; Velos was about last.

selected Velos to beat Broodler yesterday. Broodler won; Velos was about last.

It is true that little Rice, who rode Velos, was called into the stand to explain his showing. But this cuts comparatively little figure with the betters.
The boy was probably shaken from his heavy fall in the fourth race and offered this-reasonably enough—as an explanation. A youngster could hardly be expected to put forth his best efforts after a shock of the sort he received when Maister bumped Harmakis and he was sent sprawling in the mud.
Be it seems best to make selections today on the form the horses have shown and let the bettors judge for themselves anent the matter. If favorities can win at Union, it would not seem unreasonable to expect them to do the same at the Fair Grounds.

to expect them to do the same at the Fair Grounds.

It the first race, Royal Pirate, Aransas and Bendara look the least bad of the outfit. In the second race, Arch Odham seems best on his race in the Woodlands Stake, Costigan seems second best and Piatoon third.

Knowledge has won his races in handy fashion. He may repeat in the third today. Arnold K., after his glowing performance of yesterday, should hardly have the countenance to do better than second, while Lord Haven may be third.

Triple Silver should win the fifth, although that is no sign that he will do so. Antitrust looks well for next place, and Nearest, on her improved form of yesterday, may be third.

Tristan Shandy may forget to be bumped to-day and may win. Lynch and Sweet Dream should some in next, in order.

After the defeat of Arneld K. in the third race at the Fair Grounds vesterday. It seems little use to make selections. To pick the "best bet" in the fields offered to-day locks like a hopeless task.

Arneld K. went down to defeat before Ingolthrift yesterday. For his last few starts, Arneld has been showing form of fair class. He seemed to well deserve the odds of 1 to 2 laid against him and the play he received.

In his two starts at the Fair Grounds, Ingolthrift has failed to show much form. Last Thursday, in stoppy going similar to that of yesterday, is was beaten off nine.

At Union Track.

Granting that the track at Union Park will dry out to-day before the bugie calls the horses from the paddock for the first race, the going will be holding, and it will be rather a case of a survival of the fittest.

The fields will not average over seven starters to a race, so that the vercentage of picking winners is not so hard, but hard shough at that, as the speculator usually discovers when he balances his cast account of the count and there is no use in piacing the bed gedding in any place but first. boys bend their heads in racing along behind the leaders over a sloppy track like that of yesterday. When he returned to the scale his face was streaming with blood as a result of being struck with some lump of mud or some small stone which was thrown from the heels of the horse in advance of him.

That it requires nerve to run through the halo of mud surrounding the leaders in a race nowadays, is evidenced by the manner in which some horses postively decline to get close behind the spinshing advance guard in the races. The shower of wet mud and sand is evidently extremely painful.

Rice was the last boy of the day to re-ceive official notice. He was called into the stand to explain why he did not do better with Velos. He claimed that his better with Velos. He claimed that his shoulder was so sore that he could not hold the horse's head up, and this was most likely correct after his heavy fall in the fourth race.

Little Rice looked like the proverbial drowned rat after this fifth race. He rode in the same colors in which he look his tumble and Velos kept him in such a position for the first furlong of the journey that he caught most of the mud thrown by the field.

Nearest ran without blinkers in the fifth race. Special dispensation was granted by Nearest ran without tainners in the fifth race. Special dispensation was granted by the judges for this move and the mare showed considerable improvement in the race. If she continues to improve, she should soon round to her old-time form.

If the track continues as wet as it has been of late, Secretary Hachmelster an-nounces that he may bid for the national regatta to be rowed over the Fair Grounds track instead of at Creve Coeur.

Dick Collins announces that he has a flock of ducks at home and that he will bring some down and enter them in the races, if the water continues on the course,
